Cracking down on privacy breaches

'Specific offence.' Sask. government supports recommendations to protect sensitive health-care information

MARCO VIGLIOTTI

marco.vigliotti@metronews.ca

The Saskatchewan Party government is backing recommendations from a working group for stronger protection of sensitive health information.

In a recent report, the Health Records Protection Working Group presses for changes to Saskatchewan health information legislation, calling for a "specific offence" for inappropriate uses of personal health information, an extension of offences to a broader pool of individuals and creation of a system to quickly respond to discoveries of abandoned records.

Another recommendation calls for a strict liability offence in cases of abandoned files, to place the onus on trustees responsible for the records to prove that they took "all reasonable steps" to prevent abandonment.

"(Those four) recommendations would most likely require legislative amendments," Health Minister Dustin Duncan told Metro on Thursday.

"We're going to work through the process now, to be in position to introduce those in the fall."

Gary Dickson, then Saskatchewan's information and privacy commissioner, signalled his concern last June about an absence of penalties called for in the province's privacy legislation for those who fail to protect sensitive information. These sorts of stipulations, he stressed, are common in other jurisdictions.

Diane Aldridge, acting information and privacy commissioner since Dickson left the position, noted that her predecessor "had been pushing for a number of years" for legislation on abandoned patient reords and related prosecutions.

She added, though, that the new recommendations are "quite broad" in tackling employee "snooping," record retention and other issues, "so we can understand why it's taken some time for them to get to this stage."

Aldridge wants her office to see the draft language on legislation, to allow for feedback. But she doesn't want the process dragged out.

"I would love to see that this is quickly moved forward," she said, "and that there are some strong, clear implementation dates that would provide, I think, more confidence that this thing really is going to happen."

Police search for suspects following arson with stolen car, attempted theft of another vehicle

Regina police are looking for two suspects following an arson involving a stolen car and an attempted theft of a second vehicle on Thursday.

Police responded to a fire in a back lane on the 2300-block of Elphinstone Street where they found a 1997 Chrysler Intrepid in flames. The car had been reported stolen from a home on the 100-block of Toronto Street North on Wednesday night, police said.

Firefighters extinguished the blaze, which had caused extensive damage to the vehicle as well as to a garage and a garbage bin.

Around the same time, two suspects were seen attempting to steal a vehicle on the 2400-block of Garnet Street. The vehicle's window was smashed and its ignition was damaged.

The suspects — a man wearing a dark hat and baggy jeans and an individual of uncertain gender wearing a brown and orange jacket — ran from the scene, police said.

"We've been dealing with stolen vehicles for many years, and it's common where one stolen vehicle is left abandoned, then another one is stolen very near — like in this case," said police Staff Sgt. Bob Koroluk.

Both suspects are believed responsible for setting the stolen Intrepid on fire. SARAH TAGUAM/METRO

Ring around the Regina Co-operators Centre

Competing players chase the ring on their knees as action heats up in a game between the Edmonton Elite and Team British Columbia at the Canadian Ringette Championships at Regina's Co-operators Centre on Thursday. The Edmonton squad, wearing the dark blue uniforms, had just scored to take a 1-0 lead in the UC-19 AA match before the photograph was taken. The championships, covering three divisions, began on Monday and will wrap up with gold medal games at the Co-operators Centre on Saturday. SARAH TAGUAM/METRO

Keep Lean out of schools, NDP urges

Cost-cutting. Province brings controversial initiative — long used in health care — into education system

marco.vigliotti@metronews.ca

The opposition New Democrats are calling for the Saskatchewan Party government to reverse course and halt any further attempts to implement a controversial consulting scheme in the education sector.

NDP education critic Trent Witherspoon wants the province to cancel any additional dollars to Lean consulting programs in its education sector plan to be unveiled on Friday.

"We're calling for the government to not get distracted with this costly Lean agenda," Witherspoon told Metro on Thursday.

"What they need to do is put the dollars in the front line of education."

Education Minister Don

Morgan, however, said the province is using "some Lean methodology" to find savings in its plan to build nine schools through a public-private partnership.

He said the project's high price tag makes efficiencies much more important.

"It's a major investment for the province — hundreds of millions of dollars will be spent on the schools," Morgan explained.

"We want to use every efficiency tool as we develop the process."

Witherspoon acknowledged that the management scheme might have success in large production-centred industries, but stressed that it won't translate well to education because of the diverse needs of students.

"Unlike the companies that have used Lean, students don't come off a production line. We don't have the ability to recall students five or 10 or 20 years down the road," Witherspoon said in reference to Lean practitioner Toyota, which recently announced a recall of close to six million vehicles around the world.

'Today is a very sad day'

Jim Flaherty. Death of former finance minister stuns Parliament Hill

Jim Flaherty died suddenly Thursday at age 64, less than a month after retiring from his post as Canada's finance minister.

Flaherty, who spent eight years in the role, had been ill for some time, though that was not cited as a reason for his resignation.

The news rocked the House of Commons, as politicians mourned the loss of a finance minister who trudged through a financial crisis and recession and balanced the once rocky Canadian budget.

"Today is a very sad day — for me, for our government and for all of our country. I learned a short time ago that our colleague, my partner and my friend Jim Flaherty has passed away suddenly today," Prime Minister Stephen Harper told MPs in a Parliament Hill committee room with his wife Laureen in tears by his side.

"This comes as an unexpected and terrible shock to Jim's

Question period was suspended Thursday after the news broke. The usually raucous chamber was in a lull, with politicians hugging, crying and mourning together.

"It was very, very sombre, sad, but shocking, obviously," said NDP MP Paul Dewar, adding that, unlike other finance ministers, Flaherty brought a certain levity to the usually stressful environment. "He had that twinkle in his eye and he had a great sense of humour that brought something to the House of Commons and the politics, which is all too often not there."

Foreign Affairs Minister John Baird expressed his condolences in a written statement Thursday, calling Flaherty a "good friend and colleague for over two decades."

"Jim was a mentor to me throughout my time at Queen's Park from a very young age," wrote Baird. "I could always rely on Jim to be a devout friend through tough times, and an encouraging figure through good."

Budget Officer Kevin Page, now a professor at the University of Ottawa, spent extensive time on the job with Flaherty and although the two butted heads on several issues, Page acknowledged how good a finance minister Flaherty was.

"It's a loss for the country for sure," said Page. "It's just an exhausting job, but he certainly rose to the occasion."

Flaherty's family offered a statement before asking for privacy.

"We appreciate that (Flaherty) was so well supported in his public life by Canadians from coast to coast to coast and by his international colleagues," it said.

Brazeau arrested on charges of assault, cocaine possession

Suspended senator Patrick Brazeau pleaded not guilty on Thursday to several charges, including assault and cocaine possession.

Police arrested the 39-year-old in Gatineau, near Ottawa, at around 4 a.m. Thursday following a domestic assault call. Police say they arrived to find Brazeau and a woman in a "physical altercation." A 50-year-old man was also at the house.

Brazeau was charged with two counts of assault, uttering death threats, cocaine possession and breach of conditions. He briefly appeared in court wearing handcuffs. He did not look at reporters.

He also has one charge of assault and one charge of sexual assault outstanding from 2013.

Brazeau was to be held in custody overnight and was due to reappear in court Friday morning for a bail hearing.

Crown prosecutor Sylvain Petitclerc said he asked to keep Brazeau in custody to assure the safety of others and because he breached bail conditions.

"We cannot just let him go free as a bird like that," he said, adding that depending on the bail hearing, Brazeau could be kept in custody again or be released with certain conditions.

A huge pile of what appeared to be Brazeau's belongings were strewn all over the back door of his girlfriend's house, including photographs, his Certificate of Indian Status card, clothing and CDs.

Millard now also facing charges in his father's death

First-degree murder charges. Toronto man already accused in Tim Bosma's case

A Toronto man accused of killing a Hamilton father who disappeared after taking a pair of prospective buyers for a test drive has now been charged with murder in the death of his own father and another woman.

Dellen Millard has been charged with first-degree murder in the deaths of Wayne Millard and Laura Babcock, with whom Dellen was romantically linked, Ontario provincial police said Thursday.

Mark Smich is also charged with first-degree murder in Babcock's death.

Officers have "attended and spoken with the Babcock family," Toronto police Staff Insp. Greg McLane said in a news conference.

"We'd ask that the victims' families be afforded privacy during these very, very difficult times."

Millard's lawyer, Deepak Paradkar, would not comment on the new charges but said he would "defend the case zealously."

He had previously dismissed any connection between the three cases as speculation.

Millard, 28, and Smich, 26, are charged with first-degree murder in the death of Tim Bosma, who vanished May 6, 2013 after leaving home in his pick-up with two men. He had posted the truck for sale online.

His remains were found about a week later burned beyond recognition at a southwestern Ontario farm belonging to Millard.

Civilian food crisis at its worst: UN

The United Nations says the food crisis facing displaced Syrian civilians has now reached the worst-case scenario, with no end in sight.

That is forcing the UN World Food Program to cut food distribution by 16 per cent this month to millions of internally displaced people and refugees after a 20 per cent cut in March, said Muhannad Hadi, the agency's emergency co-ordinator for Syria.

This comes as more people than ever before are solely dependent on the agency to feed them. The WFP predicts its desperate client list — from inside Syria and neighbouring countries — to grow from 5.8 million to seven million by year end, said Hadi.

"From day one, we have prepared ourselves for the worst-case scenario, but the fact is we never thought the worst-case scenario would be for so long," Hadi said. THE CANADIAN PRESS

Immigration to Canada

Newcomers. Ready to shape the future, even if number of people arriving slows

SCOTT TAYLOR
Metro in London, Ont.

What will Canada look like in 2017 as it becomes 150 years old? What will it look like beyond that?

The tide of immigration will continue, but some think the flow will become more of a trickle as the years pass.

"I think it's a fair assumption to think that there will be a lower level of immigration than the current level," said Western University sociology professor Roderic Beaujot.

Politicians may say Canada needs immigration "especially at election time," Beaujot said. But, the problem is, demographers and economists aren't necessarily preaching the same message, he said.

Beaujot also sees the need to stem population explosions around the world as having an adverse effect on immigration.

"The world can't sustain this continuous growth that we have," he said. "The population has to live within the ecology. For that alone, it may slow down."

Such thoughts are worlds away for two young women, who recently became Canadian citizens.

Paula Garcia's family came to Canada from Colombia seven years ago. Soon, the 23-year-old university student will be able to give back to the country that took her in, all while fulfilling a dream of her own.

She plans to be an elementary school teacher, in part, because she wants to offer children the best possible future.

"I love kids, so that's what I thought would be the best thing for me," she said. "I have the possibility to do this here now."

The citizenship ceremony, Garcia said, was wonderful, and while the test she had to pass to get there was difficult, it was fair. She earned an A.

She was one of 62 people who became citizens at a March 26 ceremony in London, Ont.

Maria Qureshi, 32, originally from Pakistan, was there too.

She held a small Canadian flag in her hand and had a smile on her face, after taking the oath. "It's like nervous excitement," she said. "I had tears in my eyes when they first announced that we're citizens, and I loved the judge's speech.

It was amazing."

Citizenship Judge Normand Vachon quoted inspirational leaders such as Nelson Mandela, Mother Teresa and Mahatma Gandhi in his welcoming speech to the new Canadians.

Qureshi said the long wait for that day was difficult, but boasted that she too aced the citizenship test. "I studied extra hard for it, and I took it really seriously," she said proudly. "So I scored full marks on it."

In Canada, she said she hopes for a better future because she has a better chance of

Research

A Statistics Canada paper says one of three situations, all depending on a number of factors and formulas, will play out for immigration through 2036.

- Low projection: Six immigrants per thousand population each year; would be the lowest rate recorded since early 1990s.
- Medium projection: 7.5 immigrants per thousand population each year; matches the average annual immigration rate for early 1990s to late 2000s.
- High projection: Nine immigrants per thousand population each year; matches highest rate recorded since 1991.

Looking into the future

Here's what some of the people Metro talked to over the past five days said about where they've come from and what they hope to see in coming years.

Jamie Martinez (from Colombia): "The first thing that we need to do is to have equity here. It means if the population of Colombians is two per cent (in Canada), every company needs to have two per cent Colombians working there."

Jaime Martinez

Shirley Edwards (from United Kingdom): "It takes a number of years to settle and integrate into a new country. Be patient, though. Know that when you need support (you can) ask for it (and) it will come. That's what community is for. That's the Canada we now call home."

Shirley Edwards

Priscilla Bunke (From Nigeria): "My hope for the future is to be able to follow my career and help my children achieve their potential in our chosen country."

Canadian opinion

Young people more open to immigrants: Prof

Freedom, peace, the opportunity to build a better life.

It's simple to see why people from other countries care about immigration and are passionate about its future.

But what about the average Canadian? Is immigration — the influx of people with different ways of doing things — a positive or a negative thing?

Much of it depends on who you're asking, one expert said.

"Judging by the students I meet every year in Ottawa, who come from several parts of the country, the young generation has a more progressive and more open-minded notion (of immigration)," said University of Ottawa

Canadian history professor Pierre Anctil.

More rural areas tend to be less accepting, Anctil said. Though there are exceptions to that rule, he added.

Breath of French air fetches $860

Beijing artist Liang Kegang returned from a business trip in southern France with a small item of protest against his home city's choking pollution: a glass jar of clean, Provence air.

He put it up for auction before a group of about 100 Chinese artists and collectors late last month, and it fetched 5,250 yuan ($860).

We Create Change Tour. Free the Children ambassador Spencer West leading group visiting schools across Canada over 10 weeks

"Fifty-seven million children are still denied access to education."

Spencer West

Sure, we've all been on a road trip, but imagine one that sets out to visit 90 cities in 10 weeks — oh, and did we mention it's all to celebrate Canadian students helping other youth around the world to access education?

Starting Friday, Free the Children ambassador Spencer West, along with friends from the band Neverest, 11-year-old activist Hannah Alper and cast members from Degraasi, are visiting schools across the country as part of the We Create Change Tour.

This unique trip is billed as a "mini We Day" — Free the Children's annual event inspiring youth to get involved and make a difference in their community and the world.

"Fifty-seven million children are still denied access to education," said West, who lost both his legs at the age of five. "I've had the chance to speak with young people around the world who dream of changing their lives and the lives of their families through education."

As a sponsor, Metro will follow the tour as it makes its way across the country, with West sharing with readers how students across Canada have inspired him with their efforts to help those who haven't had an opportunity to go to school.

Visit metronews.ca to follow our interactive map chronicling West's journey.

CBC cutting 657 jobs after hit of losing HNIC

The Canadian Broadcasting Corp. said it will cut 657 jobs over the next two years as it deals with a big budget shortfall. PETER POWER/THE CANADIAN PRESS

Budget. The public broadcaster has been dealt serious blows by loss of Hockey Night in Canada and 'hostile' government cuts

The CBC is slashing 657 positions over two years and will no longer pursue broadcast rights to professional sports as it grapples with a massive budget shortfall.

The public broadcaster announced a swath of cuts Thursday that will shave $130 million from its 2014-2015 budget and spur a new mandate "to reimagine itself" as the media landscape changes.

CBC president Hubert Lacroix detailed the news at a town hall meeting for employees that outlined financial challenges including a softened advertising market, disappointing ratings for CBC-TV, "much lower-than-expected" ad revenues from Espace musique and CBC Radio 2, and the loss of NHL broadcast rights to Rogers Media.

"There's no easy way to deliver news like this," Lacroix said in prepared remarks that were posted online moments after his private address.

"I know many of you are sad. I know there will be many questions. We will answer them straight up, both in our Q&A session today, in the meetings that will follow, and as things take shape over the coming days."

Spokesman Ian Morrison, of the watchdog group Friends of Canadian Broadcasting, blamed the budget troubles on "a hostile" Conservative government that reduced the CBC's funding appropriation by $115 million back in 2012.

Sriracha factory pecked by Irwindale in heated spat

A Southern California city has declared the factory that produces the popular Sriracha hot sauce a public nuisance.

The Irwindale City Council's action Wednesday night gives the factory 90 days to make changes to stop the spicy odours that prompted complaints from some residents last fall. Declaring a public nuisance will allow city officials to enter the factory and make changes if the odours persist after the deadline.

The decision came despite testimony by air-quality experts that progress was being made toward a resolution. The South Coast Air Quality Management District said its inspectors have taken air samples inside the plant, and believed the information gathered should allow the factory and the city to resolve their differences.

Attorney John Tate, who represents Sriracha maker Huy Fong Foods, Inc., said the company had been working with the AQMD on its filtration system since the complaints first arose. He said the company was committed to finding long-term solutions by June 1.

He called the public nuisance declaration a demonstration of "the city flexing its muscle and thumbing Huy Fong in the eye."

A call to Irwindale City Attorney Fred Galante was not immediately returned.

MILEY DROPS BALL ON FEMALE POWER

1 Solidarity. You know that one relative we all enable? The “victim” that alienates everyone, wants no part of the family, but still feels entitled to financial support as if restitution for their “emotional scars”? We pity them but eventually just stop taking their calls. It’s sad. In unrelated news, the Parti Québécois was convincingly defeated in Quebec’s provincial election.

2 Wrecking Ball. Some think that Miley Cyrus is just a wild child, but she’s really a freedom-fighter advocating sexual equality. Cyrus says “Guy rappers grab their crotch all f---ing day and have hos around them... but if I grab my crotch and have hot model b---hes around me, I’m degrading women? ... But I’m part of the evolution of that. I hope.” So there it is: Miley Cyrus is the evolution of female empowerment. As well, probably a growing trend of parents home-schooling their daughters.

3 #MarchMadness. The NCAA men’s basketball finals saw the University of Connecticut Huskies defeat the Kentucky Wildcats. It marked the first time a 7th and 8th seed met in the finals but was no less satisfying. We saw high energy, great dunks, some violent unsportsmanlike conduct, and terrific in-depth analysis. And that was just from the other guys at the bar.

THE METRO LIST
Mike Benhaim

4 #DayofPink. This year’s “international day against bullying, discrimination, homophobia and transphobia in schools and communities” took place this week with tremendous support. The best hope to deter a bully is to educate them and others about how to deal with them. We can draw from our own experiences as almost all of us can relate to being bullied: Some by the big kid at school, others by their boss, and some by Revenue

Canada. (That last one was a cry for help. They’re killing me!)

5 U Conn’t beat ‘em. The day after their boys won it all, U Conn’s undefeated women’s team scored a convincing victory over Notre Dame’s also undefeated ‘fighting Irish’ to bring home the championship. Both teams set new standards for their schools, and for women everywhere. But I can’t help think that somewhere at the heart of all this, stands Miley Cyrus. (What? Too much?) #Uconn

6 Holy week. Two upcoming religious holidays include Passover for the Jews, and Easter for Christians. Both share a historical bond celebrated with wine and feasts and family members gathering to remind each other of things long forgotten. Like the time they went to a party and woke up at the zoo, lost the family savings in a Ponzi scheme, or declared grandpa mentally incompetent to gain control of his estate. All the while, sharing blessings of peace. Happy holidays!

7 In memoriam. The passing of Hollywood icon Mickey Rooney revived reports of elder abuse that left him almost destitute. @peoplemag tweeted: “Mickey Rooney’s funeral delayed by family fighting” which prompted George Lopez to tweet “I didn’t know Mickey Rooney was Mexican?” That aside, his physical stature never diminished his artistic largesse, and that body of work, not his financial estate, is his true legacy. #RIP

On cloud divine

COURTESY BERNDNAUT SMILDE/RONCHINI GALLERY

Indoor cloud art is mist-ifying

A Dutch artist is taking the creative industry by storm... with his indoor clouds. Berndnaut Smilde, 35, from Amsterdam, Netherlands, uses a smoke machine and clever lighting to create nimbuses of various shapes in empty spaces. An exhibition of his artworks, Antipode, is now on at London, U.K.’s Ronchini Gallery until June 14.

METRO

Artist’s viewpoint

“It always takes awhile to get a cloud where I want it. Their ephemerality is what I like the most. They just appear for a few seconds and then it falls apart.”

Berndnaut Smilde, based in Amsterdam

Mystery points to the ominous

Ultimately, “there is a definite ominous element of my work,” the artist says, pointing to the clouds’ mystifying quality. “There is something ungraspable about clouds, which I think is really interesting,” Smilde says.

“For this reason, people have been creating myths and meanings around clouds for centuries,” he concluded.

Babies let their taste buds do the talking

metronews.ca

If we were to rank food flavours that are largely hostile to our taste buds, lemons would have to rank near the top with sour keys and horseradish. But that’s an admittedly sophisticated opinion, hardened by years spent emptying bowls, cups and plates. Combining flavours and whatnot.

To get to the kernel of a lemon’s appeal, we need to return to ground zero for citrusy flavour country and put them in the hands of babies. The results are obviously adorable, but there’s something suspicious about the ones that appear to like it. Or perhaps they’re just old souls.

BEING VERY TIRED?

Middle-Age Energy Booster

Doctors on the Dr. Oz TV Show said that the most frequent complaint they get is "Being Very Tired", some call it fatigue. They have no energy or interest to do anything. More food is not the answer. Drugs are not the answer either as the Johns Hopkins Medical School puts it: "The fact is, all medicines, whether OTC or prescription, carry some risk". It needs a "key" to rejuvenate your own natural systems that fell asleep. Bell provides that key with natural ingredients: Selenium, amines like spermine and spermidine, which are found in radishes, cucumbers and oats as well as all human cells. Nothing could be more natural than topping off that supply. There is no risk. The Wayne State University researched these ingredients for years and Bell guarantees your satisfaction. It is all right to be skeptical and for that reason we show a few results below and have hundreds more, if you go on our website under #7 Erosyn, which has exactly the same ingredients. This rejuvenation means that most men and women may have youthful feelings again for their partner. Those who want it can resume their intimate relationship. We supply the proof that it works. If incontinence plays a role: McMaster University says that 65% of middle-aged women suffer with incontinence and this is the main reason why many withdraw from intimacy. This can be overcome within days by drinking the Bell Bladder Control Tea #4b available in the same stores as #65. No more rushing to the bathroom and no padding or diapers needed anymore. Many people wrote we changed their lives.

■ Bell Middle Age Energy Booster changed our lives. All I can say is am very satisfied and so is my lovely wife. I am so happy I have my youthful energy back. My wife thanks you too. Raoul Martin, 52, Woodstock, ON ■ I should have started using Bell #65 years ago, I should have started using Bell #65 years ago, when I noticed things were starting to slack off. The results were much better than I ever hoped for. David Buckley, 42, Peterborough, ON ■ Being in my forties I felt a loss of energy and zest for life. I have tried every product on the market. This Bell #65 is the best preparation for aging people. A. J. Carisse, 44, Fredericton, NB

Synopsis

On the day of the NFL Draft, Cleveland Browns general manager Sonny Weaver Jr. (Kevin Costner) is faced with some tough choices. His team is not doing well, sports radio talking heads are beating him up for ruining the franchise his late father — the legendary coach Sonny Weaver Sr. — built up and his girlfriend (Jennifer Garner) is angry with him. His future and possibly the future of the team hinges on one deal: a massive trade for hotshot quarterback Bo Callahan (Josh Pence).

• Richard: ●●●●●

• Mark: ●●●●●

Feelings in football. Kevin Costner brings heart to this film about a down-on-his-luck NFL general manager hinging his future on one big trade

Richard: Mark, the message behind Draft Day is that technical ability is one thing, but heart is more important. It's a key message for the story. This movie works well because it has heart like the players Costner's character tries to recruit.

Mark: Which makes the movie the opposite of Moneyball, which celebrates rationality and scientific method. But there were other reasons I liked the movie. Having it take place on one day gives the film an urgency. And there were some nice directorial flourishes, too. I haven't seen split screen used so well. And let's not forget a strong supporting cast.

RC: Like Moneyball, Draft Day scores authenticity points by casting a number of sports figures and insiders playing themselves, but you're right, the supporting cast scores a touchdown. I enjoyed Frank Langella playing the anything-for-a-buck owner of the Browns. Of course, this really is Costner's movie. He's always easy to watch, but particularly so when he's in sports movies.

MB: And it's hard to watch Costner without thinking about his iconic sports role in Field of Dreams. This is often where players wind up — as coaches and managers. So there's a through line to the character to appreciate. But I am not a football fan. So all the negotiations were like watching a game of chess without any idea how the pieces are moved. Could you follow the technical details of the trades? Or were you wishing for subtitles?

RC: Subtitles might have helped, but it didn't matter if I followed the intricacies because I think the emotion that comes with changing someone's life by drafting them into the NFL — I found those scenes powerful.

MB: Ivan Reitman sometimes lapses into sentiment and bathos, but he keeps these tendencies in check. I was also impressed at the sure handed direction. Reitman's working at the top of his game.

Lena Dunham GETTY IMAGES

Dunham was crushed to realize she's straight

While being honoured at the Point Foundation awards earlier this week, Dunham praised her lesbian sister and admitted to a tinge of sexual orientation-centred jealousy, according to E! Online. "I have always felt a strong and emotional connection to the members of the LGBTQ community," Dunham says. "It was actually a huge disappointment for me when I came of age and realized that I was sexually attracted to men. So when my sister came out I thought, 'Thank God, someone in this family can truly represent my passions and beliefs.'"

Heigl sues chain over tweeted pic

Katherine Heigl is suing New York pharmacy chain Duane Reade for tweeting about her, according to Entertainment Tonight. Heigl apparently wasn't too thrilled when the chain posted a photo of her near one of their stores to its Twitter and Facebook accounts. "Duane Reade is liable for not less than $6 million in compensatory and punitive or treble damages," a suit filed by Heigl reads. The photo, taken by paparazzi without Heigl's permission, was posted with the caption, "Even (Heigl) can't resist shopping NYC's favorite drugstore." The proceeds from any legal victory for the actress would go to charity. METRO WORLD NEWS

Naya Rivera, Big Sean put the 'ex' in Rolex

MELINDA TAUB

Metro World News

Naya Rivera and Big Sean have called off their engagement. But their breakup is no placid, cordial conscious uncoupling. It's more of a tweet-accusations-of-theft kind of uncoupling.

Rapper Big Sean's rep said that it was his decision to call off the engagement, denying rumours that he'd cheated. Sources told TMZ that he called things off because Rivera, who stars on Glee as Santana, was too controlling and jealous.

Rivera herself felt no need to get her side of the story out through anonymous sources: She went straight to the Internet. In a now-deleted tweet, she wrote, "@bigsean stealing rolexes from a lady's house now. Maybe cuz I'm on Glee and making more money or something. #triflin."

Burn! But the story doesn't end there. Sources told TMZ that the watch was actually Sean's and he just lent it to Rivera. We look forward to more deleted tweets in response.

Regardless, neither is likely to languish in singlehood for long: Rivera seems to have gone up a cup size or two of late. And hey, Big Sean has a Rolex now.

The California Wine Fair has begun its annual trek across the country. It's always a classy night out, and fans of The Golden State will get to wet their whistle with a wide variety of wines from many of Cali's prime wine regions.

Though the Napa and Sonoma Valleys made it famous, California has almost 150 American Viticultural Areas (AVAs). These AVAs define each wine's geographical origin and where grapes that made the juice were grown.

Paso Robles may not be the easiest region to pronounce (it's pah-sow-row-bless), but it's producing some of the most original wines on the U.S. west coast from dozens of different grape varieties. Located between Los Angeles and San Francisco, it's also the home to many of Cali's most straight forward and consistent whites and reds made from mainstream fruit.

Condiment

Salsa Verde

- 1 1/2 cups (2 handfuls) parsley leaves, de-stemmed
- 1 handful (about 40) chives, chopped
- 1 cup extra virgin olive oil
- 1/4 cup capers
- 3 cloves garlic
- 4 tbsp lemon juice
- 2 tsp Dijon mustard
- ground black pepper
- 1/4 small red onion, chopped
- 1 small tin (8-10) anchovies, drained
- yolk of one hard boiled egg

Purée all the ingredients in a food processor until smooth.

Salsa Verde keeps in a covered jar in the fridge for about a week or it can be frozen.

1. Line a shallow baking tray or roasting dish measuring at least 35 x 25cm with baking paper.

2. Roast the hazelnuts at 180 C for 12-15 minutes until they smell aromatic. Allow to cool and then rub off the loose skins in a clean tea towel. (Don't worry about doing a perfect job — they don't need to be fully skinned).

3. Place the white chocolate in a double boiler or microwave and melt (if using a microwave, heat for about 2 minutes, stirring after 1 minute and then every 30 seconds until chocolate is melted and smooth). Melt the dark chocolate in a separate bowl, using the same method. It tends to take a little longer.

4. Mix most of the hazelnuts into the melted white chocolate. Roughly mark 5 long rows onto the lined tray. Spread the white chocolate mix into the 2nd and 4th rows. Sprinkle extra nuts where needed.

1. Rub the lamb all over with Salsa Verde (see left) and season with salt and pepper. Cover and stand for at least 30 minutes, or refrigerate for up to 12 hours. If you do put the lamb in the fridge, take it out 30 minutes before cooking so it can reach room temperature before going into the oven.

2. When you are ready to eat, preheat oven to 230 C. Transfer lamb to an oven tray or heavy cast iron dish and roast for 16-20 minutes or until it is done to your preference. Remove

Ingredients

- 3 lamb racks, trimmed, or 6 lamb back straps or 3-4 lamb rumps
- 4 tbsp Salsa Verde
- flaky salt and ground black pepper

Ingredients

- 1 1/2 cups shelled hazelnuts or other nuts
- 375 g white chocolate
- 375 g best quality dark chocolate
- 2 tsp finely ground espresso coffee beans

5. Mix ground coffee into the dark chocolate. Spread mixture into the other 3 rows. Pull a knife across the rows 3 or 4 times each way to create swirls.

6. Chill until set and break into chunks. Serve on a platter with coffee or fresh berries.

Making Haaste to the top of the Masters leaderboard

The Masters. Bill Haas attempting to win green jacket for his golfing family

With dad in his ear, Bill Haas turned in the best round of his Masters career Thursday.

Now he wants to do what his father never could — finish the job.

Haas birdied the final hole for a 4-under 68 and the opening-round lead, the first time he has broken 70 in five appearances at Augusta National.

His father, Jay, played in the Masters 22 times, with five top-10 finishes topped by a tie for third in 1995. He is staying with his son this week and providing valuable advice on the practice range.

"I never remember thinking, 'Man, I wish I could hit this shot for my dad,'" Bill Haas said. "But I do know that there's times I'm like, 'I wish my dad could hit this shot for me.'"

Jay Haas never won a major despite having plenty of success on the PGA Tour.

Maybe his 31-year-old son can take care of that family oversight.

Playing in their first Masters, Jimmy Walker, Kevin Stadler and Jonas Blixt were among those shooting 70, making their way around the course just fine despite some unfamiliarity with the revered layout. THE ASSOCIATED PRESS

NHL. Shanny reportedly joining Maple Leafs brass

Several media reports say NHL disciplinarian Brendan Shanahan will become the new president of hockey operations for the Toronto Maple Leafs.

Shanahan, who was born in Toronto, played in the NHL for 22 years and was inducted into the Hockey Hall of Fame in 2013.

The 45-year-old retired as a player in 2009 and joined the NHL's executive as vice president of hockey and business development a month later.

On June 1, 2011, Shanahan replaced Colin Campbell as the league's chief disciplinarian, helping the NHL crack down on illegal plays.

Alfredsson's decision starting to pay off

Playoff-bound. Red Wings headed to the post-season despite injuries to star players

When Daniel Alfredsson pulled off the stunner of the NHL off-season by leaving the Ottawa Senators as a free agent, the rationale he gave was simple: He thought the Detroit Red Wings offered him a better chance to win the Stanley Cup.

At the time, skeptics looked at the Senators and questioned if that was true. They had just overcome injuries to Jason Spezza, Erik Karlsson and Craig Anderson to reach the second round of the playoffs, and even Alfredsson saw a bright future ahead.

Playing into his 40s, Alfredsson just didn't "have the time to wait for that." As a disappointing season unfolded in Ottawa, it became clear the longtime Senators captain was right, and on Wednesday night the Red Wings validated his decision to sign in Detroit by making the playoffs and giving him another opportunity to chase the cup.

"That's what you play for: to get into the playoffs," Alfredsson said after the Red Wings clinched with a shootout loss in Pittsburgh. "I played a long time in this league, I played a lot of playoff games, but I haven't won the Stanley Cup, and that's what you dream about. That's the only reason I'm still playing."

Thanks to major contributions from young players like Gustav Nyquist and Tomas Tatar, Detroit overcame injuries to the likes of Henrik Zetterberg and Pavel Datsyuk to make a 23rd consecutive playoff appearance. The Red Wings also leaned heavily on veteran defenceman Niklas Kronwall, Alfredsson and coach Mike Babcock to steady the ship. THE CANADIAN PRESS

Cancer

June 22 - July 23

If you want to make a success of something, get assistance. According to the planets, you have taken it as far as you can on your own. Now you must share the load with others.

Leo

July 24 - Aug. 23

Over the next week you will think more and more about your career and long-term ambitions. The need to make money may be a motivating factor but the most important thing is that do what you love.

Virgo

Aug. 24 - Sept. 23

You seem to be in everyone's good books at the moment, which makes you suspicious. The simple fact is some people like you for who you are, so stop being negative.

Libra

Sept. 24 - Oct. 23

If you say something you know to be untrue today, the planets warn you will be found out. There is absolutely no reason you should lie or give false information.

Scorpio

Oct. 24 - Nov. 22

You may not understand why so many people are singing your praises but you must have done something to warrant being the centre of attention. Milk the applause.

Sagittarius

Nov. 23 - Dec. 21

You may be on top of your game but a week or so from now your energy may dip, so don't make too many plans and certainly don't take on any more chores. If anything, you need a rest.

Capricorn

Dec. 22 - Jan. 20

Something unexpected will happen today and because you like everything to happen at the right time, chances are you will be thrown out of your stride. Good. It's not healthy to get too set in your ways.

Aquarius

Jan. 21 - Feb. 19

The more open you have been in recent weeks, the more you need to spend some time by yourself now. This is a time for thinking and for coming to terms with your feelings. You can't do that at a party.

Pisces

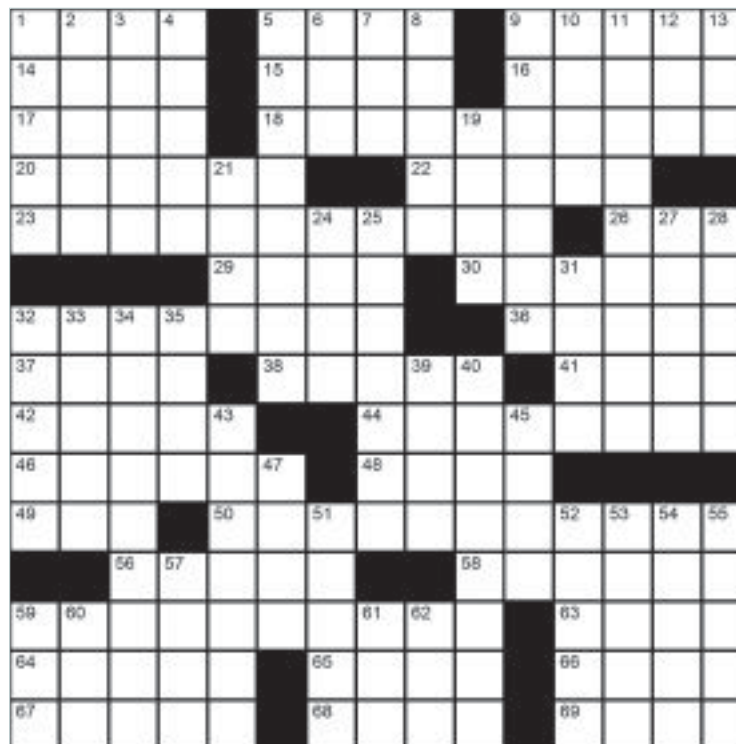

Feb. 20 - March 20

You may have to take a detour today but that's OK. You will reach your chosen destination so don't be impatient. It's what you see and hear and feel along the way that makes the journey worth it. SALLY BROMPTON
